QUAKES HIT SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

NO WORD HEARD FROM BRAZIL FLIGHT PILOT

PLANE NOT SIGHTED BY NIGHT STEAMERS LEARNED AT BRAZIL

Rio De Janeiro Ready
To Welcome Intrepid
Georgia Youth

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Aug. 25.—All night long the Brazilian radio station at Para was on the alert for steamship messages reporting the progress of Aviator Paul Redfern's flight from Brunswick, Ga., to this city, but at dawn no word had been received.

Several times messages from other stations had been intercepted asking ships if they had sighted the American flyer, but in every instance the reply was that Redfern's monoplane had been neither sighted nor heard.

Minister of Marine Admiral Pinho Luz ordered the flotilla of warcraft stationed at the mouth of the Amazon to be ready to render any assistance in the event of accident.

Steamers plying the lower Amazon between Para and the Atlantic coast were instructed to transmit any information they might pick up.

All wireless stations along the northern coast were ordered to be extra vigilant throughout the day, as the utmost confidence is felt that Redfern will be successful and that he would be nearing the coast by noon.

Weather conditions off the coast were reported favorable except off French Guiana where they are always uncertain and usually stormy.

Newspapers today printed lengthy accounts of the start of the flight and the arrangements that have been made here to greet Redfern. There is deep interest in the feat undertaken by the daring American, who set out without any companion and in a plane not equipped with radio.

In order to prevent dissemination of false reports the government instructed the National Telegraph agency to handle and give out all news of Redfern's movements and landing, so that it would be official in character. This information will be available to all newspapers and news agencies.

WORLD FLYERS TO START SOON

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Aug. 26.—Edward F. Schlee, Detroit oil magnate, and William S. Brock, his pilot, hopped off from here at 4:20 a.m. (E. S. T.) today in their Stinson-Detroiter monoplane, "Pride of Detroit," for Harbor Grace, N. F. As soon as they are favored by good weather, they will start from Harbor Grace in an attempt to encircle the globe in record time.

Edward S. Evans and Linton Wells, using airplane, steamer and train, encircled the globe last year in twenty-eight days, fourteen minutes and thirty seconds. Schlee and Brock, using only their plane, hope to beat this record.

The flyers arrived here late yesterday from Curtiss Field, N. Y.

NEGRO HANGED BY ARKANSAS MOBS

WILMOT, Ark., Aug. 26.—Winston Pounds, 20, negro, was taken from a posse of deputy sheriffs and hanged to a tree two miles from this city last night.

Arrested on a charge of criminally assaulting a young married woman in her home, Pounds was taken from the deputies by a mob of about fifty armed men who covered the officers with pistols and ordered the surrender of the prisoner.

The negro, taken in custody after being tracked from the woman's home by bloodhounds, was carried away in an auto and hanged to a tree.

TRIANGLE FIGHT TO CONTROL BALDWIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Progress of the three-cornered fight for control of Baldwin Locomotive Works, a $15,000,000 locomotive builder and rich holder of Philadelphia real estate, was keenly watched in the Wall St. district today.

The contestants are the Fisher Brothers of Detroit, famous automobile body builders, Arthur Cutten of Chicago and allied interests, and the so-called old guard of the Baldwin so-called by Samuel Vauclain, president.

RESCUE CREWS WORK FEVERISHLY IN EFFORT TO SAVE MAN IMPRISONED BY COLLAPSE OF WELL

AUBURN, Mass., Aug. 26.—Waging a grim battle with death, volunteer workers today decided to sink a shaft and tunnel to the side of Fred Leneau, 37, who was buried alive in the cave-in of a new well, at his place on Alpine Way.

Under an arch of broken timbers that held back a mass of earth and stones, Leneau spoke faintly through a fire hose that had been put down to give him air.

A physician among the rescuers ordered him to keep silent in order to conserve his strength.

Torn and broken, the body of the victim was held fast in the crush of the heavy, soggy mass of earth. The head was in an air space under the arch of timbers.

This forenoon there was a slight movement of earth and rocks above the arch. The diggers stopped in their work directly above fearing that the earth would crash down on the head of Leneau.

At 10 a.m. Leneau, a moulder, had been imprisoned in the earth sixteen hours. It was sixteen hours of terrible agony for him but he bravely kept his courage—did all in his power to live.

Hundreds watched the grim fight for life recalling the memorable battle to rescue Floyd Collins when he was held a prisoner for days and nights in a Kentucky cave only to die when rescuers freed him.

Frequent groans from the lips of the man with the broken body below the surface sent a shudder through the throng at the well-top. Leneau had been digging a well in the yard of his home when the sides suddenly collapsed. Shoring from the sides buckled, forming an arch over his head. His body was caught in the mass of earth.

Rescuers faced the task of digging an excavation in the circle around the entombed man in order that the earth might fall away from his body instead of over the planking and crush his head.

When darkness came, a cordon of automobiles surrounded the scene of the cave-in and throughout the night the glare of their headlights provided illumination for the unusual fight.

Last rites of the church were administered through the planking.

During the night, Leneau was in great pain. "Tell the wife and children that it's all over," he moaned. Mrs. Leneau with her two little children was in a state of collapse.

A dispatch from Miami, Fla., stated that some apprehension for Redfern had been felt there last night as the result of a severe local thunderstorm which struck the east coast of Florida at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Redfern, who hopped off at Glynn Isle Beach, Brunswick, at 12:46 p.m. yesterday (Eastern Standard Time), was due to pass the Florida east coast during the night.

The Miami storm was believed to indicate atmospheric disturbances over the Bahamas. The weather bureau office at Miami made the following report:

"The thunderstorm is purely local but may indicate other disturbances along the coast line. This does not necessarily mean than there are disturbances in the probable path of Redfern unless there are local disturbances in the Bahamas, around which a skillful aviator might safely proceed."

Redfern carried no radio on his monoplane, relying upon red and green flares in the event he met with accident. Ships along his route were asked to report by radio if the machine were sighted but no messages had arrived from any vessel early today.

Katherine Wilson, a "speakeasy" actress, and Richard Barthelmess, movie actor, are to wed. The couple will settle in Beverly Hills, Cal., where lives the five-year-old daughter of Barthelmess and his first wife, Mary Hay. Mary Hay is now the wife of Vivian Bath, a wealthy Singapore rubber merchant.

REDFERN BELIEVED STILL SKIMMING ON SOUTHERN JOURNEY

Florida Storm May Have Threatened Flyer,
Is Said

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug.

26.—Although no news had been received early today of the progress of Aviator Paul Redfern's non-stop flight to Rio De Janeiro, Brazil, belief existed here that the daring aviator was still aloft and skimming southward over the Atlantic according to his schedule.

A dispatch from Miami, Fla., stated that some apprehension for Redfern had been felt there last night as the result of a severe local thunderstorm which struck the east coast of Florida at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Redfern, who hopped off at Glynn Isle Beach, Brunswick, at 12:46 p.m. yesterday (Eastern Standard Time), was due to pass the Florida east coast during the night.

The Miami storm was believed to indicate atmospheric disturbances over the Bahamas. The weather bureau office at Miami made the following report:

AMERICANS IN CASUALTY LIST OF TRAIN WRECK

Twenty One Killed As Excursion Plunges
Over Trestle

CHAMONIX, France, Aug. 26.—Twenty-one persons were dead today and approximately thirty were suffering injuries of varying degrees of severity, as a result of the disaster here yesterday when an excursion train jumped the tracks and plunged over a high trestle.

Ten of the dead still were unidentified today. The train carried an international passenger list, and the work of identification proceeded very slowly.

So far, the only known American casualties were Mrs. Newton Perry of Chicago, and her daughter, who were seriously injured. Their maid was killed.

A preliminary investigation indicated that the wreck was caused by failure of the brakes.

Another American casualty was added to the list today with the identification of the body of a Mrs. Vildan, of Chicago.

Capt. Callaghan, who is a world-famous nemesis of counterfeiters, said he was informed by government sleuths in his service that a plan is under way whereby 35,000 bogus tickets will be turned loose on an unsuspecting public as soon as the demand justifies.

"I am giving this matter my personal attention," said Capt. Callaghan, "and I expect soon to have the suspected counterfeiters under surveillance."

Two men were arrested yesterday for distributing "complimentary ringside tickets." Their "paper" was such a poor imitation, however, that police are inclined to think the men were only practical jokers.

Meanwhile the legitimate sale of tickets rolls merrily on. There was some confusion at the box office over purchasers of expensive seats insisting on knowing just exactly what part of the stadium they would be seated in. The only satisfaction they got was the assurance that $40 tickets are better than $30 tickets, and so on down the scale.

BELIEVE BOMBER INJURED WHEN BOMB PREMATURELY EXPLODES

POLICE believe the bomber was injured when his bomb exploded prematurely. A man was seen running away from the station limping immediately after the explosion.

Italian residents of the community ran excitedly into the streets and containing the city sewage station and the city morgue was shaken shortly before midnight by a terrific explosion. Windows were broken for blocks and seven men in the pumping station were badly bruised.

This is Baltimore's second bombing within two weeks. Mayor Broening's home was bombed some days ago.

SANTA BARBARA HIT BY SHOCKS FRIDAY

Sleeping People Aroused But Residents Are Not Alarmed—No Property Damage Reported
—Has Had Two Serious Quakes

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Aug. 26.—Rousing sleepers from their beds, two sharp earthquake shocks rocked this city early today. No property damage was done. The first shock was felt at 4:40 a.m. and was followed by a second tremor of lesser intensity.

While a number of persons rushed into the streets after the first quake, most of the residents were not alarmed and remained indoors.

Today's shocks were the first felt here this summer.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—Reports received here today said a

OHIO ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE TO SUPPORT NEW MARSHALL BILL

Blame Wet Interests For Fight Against Xenian's
Measure

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 26.—Formal sponsorship of the Marshall bill, which seeks to restore the operations of justice courts in Ohio, after their operations had been halted by a decision of the United States Supreme Court, and upon which a referendum election is being sought, was assumed by the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, in a formal statement issued here today, following a meeting of trustees.

The onus of the fight on the Marshall bill was placed upon the "wet interests" of the state by the Anti-Saloon League statement, despite the fact that the circulation of petitions to refer the act to the voters was largely directed by Senator Bender, of Cleveland, formerly one of the most active prohibition leaders in the Ohio legislature.

"The persons vitally interested in the defeat of this law are the bootleggers, their friends and patrons," said the statement. They have made a wet and dry issue of the Marshall law referendum. If that law is defeated by the voters, the result will be heralded throughout state and nation as a wet victory."

The statement further charged that many signatures to the referendum petitions were obtained "through misrepresentation of the facts" and urged all Ohio church members to rally to the support of the Marshall measure.

SECRET SERVICE IS ACTIVE TO PREVENT
FAKE FIGHT TICKETS

Counterfeiting Said To Be

Preparing To Flood
Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—United States secret service agents were in Chicago today investigating reports that a band of notorious counterfeiters were preparing an issue of spurious tickets to the Tunney-Dempsey championship fight, scheduled for Soldiers Field September 22.

Capt. Thomas Callaghan, chief of the secret service forces in the Chicago district, laughed at the suggestion that the genuine tickets are "counterfeit-proof." He declared that he knew of at least five men, now at large, who are capable of reproducing the choice ducats.

Capt. Callaghan, who is a world-famous nemesis of counterfeiters, said he was informed by government sleuths in his service that a plan is under way whereby 35,000 bogus tickets will be turned loose on an unsuspecting public as soon as the demand justifies.

William P. McCracken, assistant secretary of the commissioner of aeronautics, in a letter to Senator Simeon D. Fess who had taken up the Toledo proposal, said the equipment would not be available because the port at Bryan would be maintained in the government's program of aeronautics and radio.

ATHENS, O., Aug. 26.—Union miners who turned back Thursday after beginning an automobile pilgrimage into the Pomeroy non-union district, will make the pilgrimage again, this time under the direction of union officials, it was announced here yesterday.

The court made the following announcement of modifications in the order:

Union picket posts must be 12 yards apart; a maximum of three pickets will be permitted at each post; the number of picket posts must be "reasonable" and no pickets will be permitted on the coal companies' properties.

It is expected counsel for the companies will seek an additional extension later from Sept. 3 to Sept. 6, on which date Judge Hough is to hear the application for permanent injunction.

A meeting was held near Nelsonville late Thursday, after the miners had headed the plea of Oscar Daugherty, president of the Nelsonville subdistrict. Daugherty agreed that the union men might visit the Pomeroy district, and promised to accompany them at an early date.

The Pomeroy district is operating with nonunion labor at the daily wage scale of 1917.

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 26.—The airport that has been operated by the government at Bryan for the last several years will not be abandoned through the program of the government to turn over its air mail business to private corporations through contracts.

Toledo, in establishing its port to be opened about October 1, attempted to obtain equipment from the Bryan port.

Arthur T. McCracken, assistant secretary of the commissioner of aeronautics, in a letter to Senator Simeon D. Fess who had taken up the Toledo proposal, said the equipment would not be available because the port at Bryan would be maintained in the government's program of aeronautics and radio.

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Aug. 26.—Operators of bus lines between Middleport and Corning, seeking to learn the whereabouts of decreased business, attribute the loss to Arthur Trowbridge's experience as a ventriloquist.

Arthur is a New York Central railroad brakeman, on duty between Middleport and Corning. After his duties are completed Trowbridge trots out a couple of "dolls" and entertains himself and the cash customers with an impromptu entertainment.

DEDICATE WRIGHT FIELD OCTOBER 12

SALLY'S SALLIES

TOKYO, Aug. 26.—Ceremonies of a national character will feature the dedication of Wright Field, October 12—Colonbus Day.

High officers of the United States Air Service and the Department of War will participate.

The ceremonies will be open to the entire public and a great aeronautical display, the most pretentious in the history of the service will be arranged. In addition there will be a flying circus with many prominent air men of the nation "doing their stuff."

LENGEL AT WORK

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 26.—Samuel A. Lengel, former chief of police of Canton, now serving a life sentence for complicity in the murder of Don R. Mellett, Canton publisher, is now working in the penitentiary bureau of criminal identification and investigation, according to Warden P. E. Thomas. Lengel is tabulating the theft and recovery of stolen automobiles.

JUNIOR BUSINESS MEN WIN LOOP TITLE IN PLAYGROUND GAMES

The final game of the Xenia playground Association schedule was never played as the Kiwanis club failed to appear for its game with the Junior Business Men Thursday. This forfeit victory gave the Business Men first place in Division A and kept the Central High School from the slim chance it had of tying the league leaders.

In the other two games this week the Kiwanis Club defeated the Senior Business Men and the Butchers lost to the Lang Chevrolet Co. The Kiwanis Club, by defeating the Senior Business Men, allowed the Boy Scouts to move into a tie with the latter team for third place. The Butchers fell into a tie for last place by their defeat.

Kiwanis vs. Senior B. M. The last place Kiwanians had no trouble disposing of the Senior Business Men in their game Tues-

KARCH AND SPAHR WIN GOLF TOURNEY

The annual Caddy's Tournament at the Xenia Country Club was won by Charles Karch and Marvin Spaar in the final rounds of match play Friday morning with Karch the "big champion" and Spaar, winner of the second flight.

The qualifying rounds were played off Tuesday and entrants were divided into two flights. The semi-finals came to a close Thursday with Karch and L. Hornick surviving in the first flight, and Karch and Spaar each defeated their respective opponents two up and one to go.

According to P. H. Gillespie, who was in charge of the tournament, the winners and the runners up are to be presented with prizes from the club, but as yet these prizes have not been decided upon.

HEARST PLANE MAY START LATE FRIDAY

ROOSEVELT FIELD, MINEOLA, N. Y., Aug. 26.—"Old Glory," the powerful single-motor William Randolph Hearst monoplane, may take off for Rome late today or what is expected to be the world's longest non-stop flight.

The sturdy looking plane, silver bodied and gold winged, was poised on the crest of the runway at Roosevelt Field this morning, her fuel tanks filled to capacity and all equipment aboard—ready to go at a moment's notice.

A fairly strong west wind, enough to enable them to get the heavy ship into the air, was all that Pilots Lloyd W. Bertaud and James DeWitt Hill, were waiting for. Weather conditions over the Atlantic were satisfactory.

STUDENT WINS PRIZE FOR NOVEL

ATTEMPTING FLIGHT DESPITE FAILURE OF COMRADES

State Auditors' Meet

WHICH IS THE MOTHER?

Otto Koenecke, a German pilot, announced he would attempt to cross the Atlantic in spite of the failure of the Bremen and the Europa. The flight is sponsored by the city of Cologne. Photo shows the plane Germania with Lieut. Koenecke, inset.

Marjorie Wescott, 23, a junior at Ripon college, Ripon, Wis., has won a national prize for the first novel she ever wrote—"Jenny Holbrook." It has been recognized by Alpha Chi Alpha, national honorary journalism sorority, as the outstanding work by a co-ed in 1927. Her brother, Glenway Wescott, already is a successful novelist.

CACTUS CLAIMED TO YIELD RUBBER

According to Dr. John C. Wichmann, America need worry no longer about its rubber supply. He says he has patented a process of turning the gummy sap of cactus lobes into a rubber substitute. Picture shows Dr. Wichmann demonstrating how the sticky sap clings after a cactus lobe is cut in half.

SEEKS INTERNATIONAL HONORS

Jacqueline Shally, chosen as "the most beautiful girl in France," has arrived in New York to vie with other beauties of France, England and the United States in a contest at Long Beach, L. I.

FIRST PHOTOS OF BIDDLES

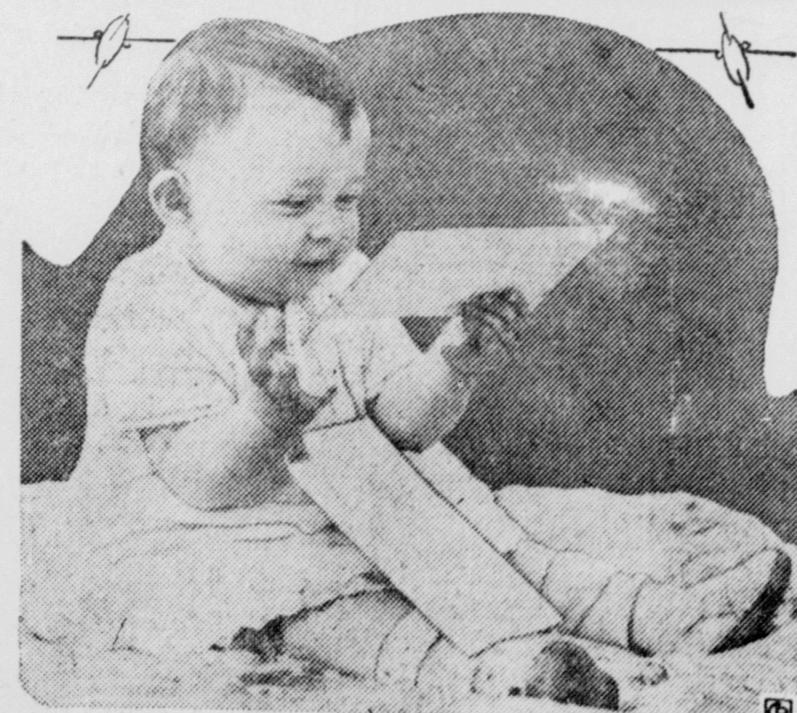

First and exclusive photos of Craig Biddle, Jr., scion of one of the best known families of Philadelphia, and his wife, the former Miss Alice Jones Thompson, of Albany, N. Y. Couple snapped at Kennebunkport, Me., following their secret marriage.

THEY GET SECOND MONEY

The monoplane Aloha, shown making a beautiful landing, was runner up in the Dole race across the Pacific. Martin Jensen (right), and Paul Schluter split a $10,000 prize.

ROMANTIC SWAINS AMUSE PEGGY

Little Peggy O'Neil, 9 months old, of St. Paul, Minn., is the youngest lady of the west to set romantic hearts aflutter. All this because her daddy wrote her name and address on Major Herbert Dargue's pan-American Good Will plane when it landed in St. Paul. Peggy has been receiving stacks and stacks of letters from would-be admirers since.

White House Post

James Dunn, secretary of the American embassy in Brussels, is expected to be appointed ceremonial officer at the White House, succeeding Jay Pierpont Moffat who has been assigned to the American legation in Switzerland.

Favorite Son

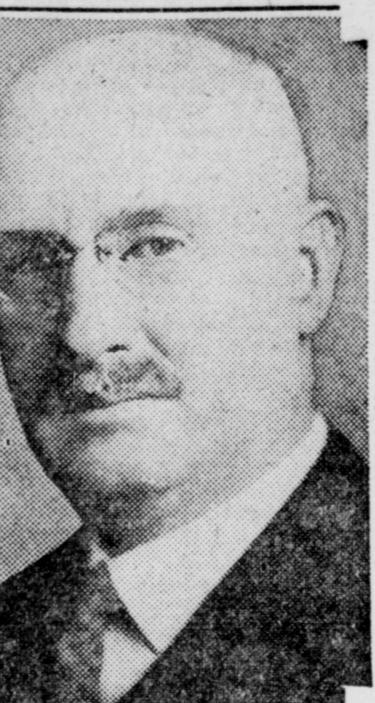

James D. Phelan, former United States Senator, is California's favorite son in the race for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency, says Isidore Dockweiler, Democratic National Committeeman from that State.

Some Scout!

Just take a look at Elwood Verner of Minneapolis! He's proud possessor of 74 merit badges. Elwood, an Eagle scout, has just two more tests to pass. Then he'll own every merit badge a Scout can earn.

Joseph T. Tracy, state auditor of Ohio, is president of the National Association of State Auditors, Comptrollers and Treasurers who will hold their 1927 convention in Boston, Sept. 6-8. Gov. Alvin T. Fuller of Massachusetts is scheduled to be one of the principal speakers.

Du Pont Prober

Francis Walker, chief economist of the Federal Trade Commission, will head the commission's investigation of the DuPont interest in General Motors and the United States Steel Corporation.

Sees World at Six

Six seems to be a lucky number for Barbara Mace, of Kansas City, Mo. This photo was taken on her sixth birthday. She has lived in six countries, Brazil, Uruguay, Argentine, Chile, Peru and Panama, and has resided in six states in the United States. She speaks English, Spanish and German. Her father, Brice M. Mace, is director of the Kansas City district office of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce.

Receives Prize

Hon. Mrs. Harold Nicholson The Hawthorne prize for the best production in creative literature for 1926 has been awarded to the Hon. Mrs. Harold Nicholson of England, nee Miss Victoria Sackville-West, only child of Lord and Lady Sackville, for her poem "The Land." She has long been noted for her literary works.

Mrs. Nancy Smith is the mother of the beautiful Dorothy Dwan, who climbed to stardom in two years of work in the films. So well has Mrs. Smith kept her school-girl complexion that when they are photographed together, as above, telling mother from daughter is a job for an expert. Make your own guess, and then see if you selected the face on the right as that of the mother. If you did, you're wrong. Mrs. Smith is on the left.

"WORTH THEIR WEIGHT IN GOLD"

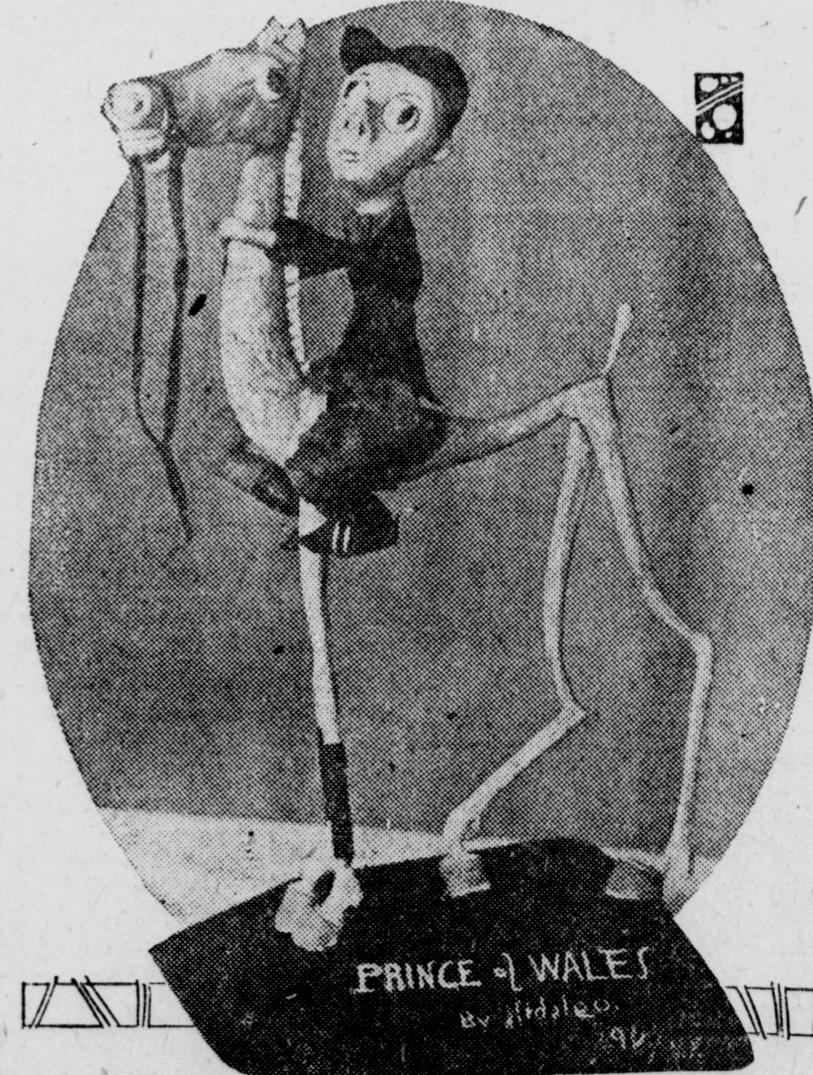

These gold and white thoroughbred English cocker spaniels are easily worth their weight in gold to their owner, Herbert Clark, of Washington, D. C.

DOG REFUSES TO BE LEFT BEHIND

H. L. Mullen, of Fresno, Cal., an aviator, has a regular flying companion now in Spot, his dog, who jumps into the cockpit of the plane and refuses to be left behind. This photo was taken in San Francisco.

MORE FUN WITH THE PRINCE

The much caricatured Prince of Wales is the latest subject for the witty and satirical Hidalgo, the famous Mexican artist who has produced this exaggerated portrait of the heir to the British throne engaged in his favorite pastime of horseback riding.

The Theater

Just as the best baseball managers are former players, and the leading football coaches are, without exception, ex-grid stars, so does Hollywood get most of its film bosses from the ranks of players. King Vidor, D. W. Griffith, Eric Von Stroheim, Tod Browning, James Cruze, Frank Borzage, Alan Crossland, Joseph Henabery and a host of other master megaphone wielders got their first experience under grease paint.

Most of the newcomers to the quite often in the leading role camp chair brigade are also former MacDonald will make a comedy as actors. The very latest actor to his first effort. The brother idea is also appearing in the directors' business. Ray Flynn, "kid" brother of Emmett J. Flynn, is now directing Buck Jones.

A great many film stars, while working on a picture, eat but two meals, "brunch" and dinner. They are so busy that they have to combine breakfast and luncheon, hence the name "brunch." Marie Prevost is credited with coining the word.

The well-dressed Hollywood maid will wear wolf this winter. Wolf, fox, and other wirey-haired fur is coming in great demand in the movie capital.

Bare legs are taboo at Hollywood high school summer school. When the edict went into effect the students didn't protest. It was discovered that hardly any of the girls appear on the streets any more sans stockings.

These movie people do work! Phil Klein, production supervisor for one of the west coast cinema shops, proves it. Klein is working on five productions at once these days.

Richard Barthelmes, motion picture star, whose first marital venture ended in a divorce, is to marry Miss Katherine Young Will-

Peter's Adventures

TURTLE AND TERRAPIN GO TO SEA

Jack-in-the-Box looked up at Boy as he made this plea, and Peter said he could have sworn there were tears in his eyes.

"Judge you by the worst of your relatives!" repeated Peter. "Why,

"Then one fine morning they came to a decision.

"I," said the Turtle, "I love the water and want to go to sea."

"Well, what about me?" asked Terrapin. "Did you ever see me when I didn't wish to be wet? I want to leave the land, too."

"But we have sworn to separate," said the two, in chorus, and looked very disconsolate, for they didn't know what to do.

"Oh, that's nothing," declared the wise old grandmother, who had listened to the brothers and saw they were coming to no decision. "Nothing at all to worry about! Turtle you start for the salt sea, and Terrapin you stay in the fresh water, and when you two have found your fortunes come back and tell us old folks about it!"

Tortoise, of course I won't. Didn't I say, and only a moment ago, that I liked you? I do, and I feel sure I am going to like you more and more the longer we are acquainted."

"There! That is all I wanted to know," said Jack-in-the-Box, and now he was grinning in his old cheerful way. "Now let's change the subject. I am getting tired of all this. I started to tell you about the three cousins, and just see how far I have wandered!"

"But you told me things I ought to have known, so it wasn't time wasted," laughed Peter. "However, now for the tale of the Tortoise, the Turtle and the Terrapin! You said they lived in Reptile land. What did they do?"

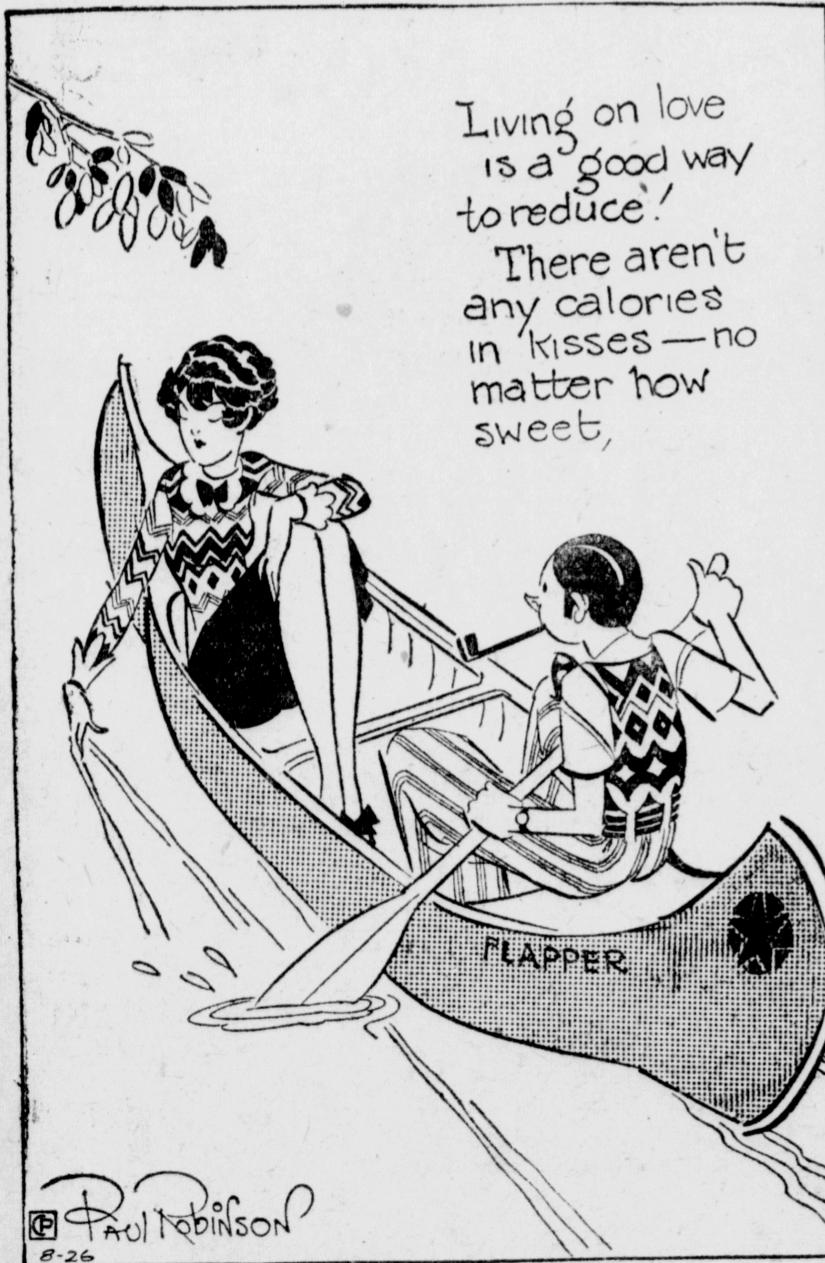

"They went to seek their for-

MRS. KELBLE WILL HEAD COMMITTEE TO BUILD PARK HOUSE

Mrs. Charles A. Kelble was named chairman of a building committee for the proposed shelter house at Shawnee Park, at a meeting of committees and others at city hall Thursday night. She was authorized to appoint her own committee.

It is expected to proceed immediately with plans for the structure, the nucleus for financing which is not proceeds from Monday's community rally and picnic, which so far have reached $545.55, and will probably go as high as $600. Final reports from all com-

by BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN", "HONEY LOU", "THE HOLLYWOOD GIRL", ETC.

"I'm going to quit my job if this keeps up," Millie giggled.

READ THIS FIRST:
SALLY JEROME, pretty and clever, is the mainstay of her family in the absence of her father, who does not live with her mother. MRS. JEROME enjoys ill health, so Sally does the housework mornings and office work afternoons for Mr. Pevey. BEAU, her brother, and MILLIE, her sister, give little towards the support of the home, and the burden falls on Sally.

In the flat below the Jerome lives TED SLOAN, who wants Sally to marry him and keep on working. But the only man who interests her is JOHN NYE, whose real estate office is across the hall from Mr. Pevey's. Millie is Nye's secretary and he is infatuated with her. However, she prefers a bond salesman named DAVIDSON, of whom John is jealous, so she says.

Beau "borrows" some money from the bank where he works, and Mr. Pevey gives Sally the money to cover the theft. Then Beau elopes with his girl, MABEL, and brings her home to live. They pay practically no board, and Sally is frantic. Millie goes to the hospital for an appendicitis operation, and John Nye pays for her expensive room and a special nurse. While she is there Sally does her work in John Nye's office, and when Mr. Pevey returns from business John offers Sally a position with him. But she refuses it, and goes into the wayside inn business with her AUNT EMILY JEROME, an ex-school teacher.

The business does not thrive, although the food is delicious and the place is beautiful and comfortable. The winter passes with Aunt Em and Sally doing all the work themselves, in a grand effort to keep afloat. In the spring Aunt Em hires a jazz band, hoping that that will "pick up" the business. Then "The Lark," a nearby roadhouse, opens, and takes away many of their patrons. Ted Sloan takes Sally to see some dancers there, and Sally and he decide to put on a dance-act themselves. It is a great hit, and affairs slowly improve at Aunt Em's inn. Sally wears a mask and a costume covered with bells when she dances. Her old one wears out and she buys an expensive new one, to the annoyance of her mother, who has come, with all the rest of the family, to live at the inn. She tells Sally that she ought to save her money and start housekeeping again. (NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER XLVII

IT always made Sally utterly miserable to know that her mother was unhappy about anything.

She felt toward Mrs. Jerome as a doting parent might feel toward a child that was sickly and bad-tempered and hard to please. She pampered her and petted her, and let her have her own way whenever she could.

Her big, shadowy eyes were full of trouble now as she turned them upon her mother's discontented face.

"I thought you liked being here with Aunt Em, dear," she said, remembering how determined her mother had been about coming there.

Mrs. Jerome signed and shook her head.

"I don't," she answered. "Your Aunt makes me get up so early in the morning, and yesterday when she asked me to shell two bushels of green beans I just didn't know how I was going to do it—the smell of peas has always made me terribly sick to my stomach. I want to go back to my own home."

Sally's face, as she stopped the car and began to unload it, was very sober. "Well, Momise," she said slowly and quietly, "I'll take another flat somewhere just as soon as I can. But I can't afford it right now."

"Of course you can afford it! The way you and your aunt are making money now!" she snapped, heavily lowering her great body from the car. "Millie said this morning that you must be making a small fortune."

"We aren't," Sally was telling the truth. They were making more money than they had, but their expenses were heavier, too.

"Then how could you afford that costume you've got there?" her mother wanted to know, her doubtmittees taking part in the rally have not been received.

While a sketch plan for the proposed shelter house is not yet available, it is expected that it will be ready within a few days. The plans are being drawn by Architect H. W. Owens. As proposed the building will be an open pavilion about forty by thirty feet, in dimension, jutting over the neck of the lagoon, with a boat house beneath.

Rio De Janeiro Ready

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Aug. 25.—All night long the Brazilian radio station at Para was on the alert for steamship messages reporting the progress of Aviator Paul Redfern's flight from Brunswick, Ga., to this city, but at dawn no word had been received.

Several times messages from other stations had been intercepted asking ships if they had sighted the American flyer, but in every instance the reply was that Redfern's monoplane had been neither sighted nor heard.

Minister of Marine Admiral Pinho Lazu ordered the flotilla of warcraft stationed at the mouth of the Amazon to be ready to render any assistance in the event of accident.

Steamers plying the lower Amazon between Para and the Atlantic coast were instructed to transmit any information they might pick up.

All wireless stations along the northern coast were ordered to be extra vigilant throughout the day, as the utmost confidence is felt that Redfern will be successful and that he would be nearing the coast by noon.

Weather conditions off the coast were reported favorable except off French Guinea where they are always uncertain and usually stormy.

Newspapers today printed lengthy accounts of the start of the flight and the arrangements that have been made here to greet Redfern. There is deep interest in the feat undertaken by the daring American, who set out without any companion and in a plane not equipped with radio.

In order to prevent dissemination of false reports the government instructed the National Telegraph agency to handle and give out all news of Redfern's movements and landing, so that it would be official in character. This information will be available to all newspapers and news agencies.

WORLD FLYERS TO START SOON

OLD ORCHARD, Me., Aug. 26.—Edward F. Schlee, Detroit oil magnate, and William S. Brock, his pilot, hopped off from here at 4:20 a.m. (E. S. T.) today in their Stinson-Detroit monoplane, "Pride of Detroit," for Harbor Grace, N. F. As soon as they are favored by good weather, they will start from Harbor Grace in an attempt to encircle the globe in record time.

Edward S. Evans and Linton Wells, using airplane, steamer and train, encircled the globe last year in twenty-eight days, fourteen minutes and thirty seconds. Schlee and Brock, using only their plane, hope to beat this record.

The fliers arrived here late yesterday from Curtiss Field, N. Y.

Cedarville Man Third
In Preliminary Handicap Shoot

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 26.—Clay-busters of all classes were looking down their gun barrels here today to compete for the premier event of the grand American tournament—the grand American handicap. The winner will receive $1,000 in cash, the Gates trophy and a varied assortment of prizes. Those finishing in the money will divide $10,500.

Charles D. Leek, Port Republic, N. J., won first money Thursday in the preliminary handicap with a score of ninety-eight, after shooting off a four cornered tie, B. S. Cooper, Thorntown, O., finished second in the shoot off; Fred Irvine, Cedarville, O., was third, and C. W. Bantz, Lockport, N. Y., fourth.

Three women tied for the women's preliminary handicap with ninety-eight scores. In the shoot-off Mrs. J. W. Phillips, Bartlesville, Okla., was first with a perfect 25; Miss Margaret McGarrah, New Albany, Ind., second with 24, and Mrs. C. B. Pike, Kent, O., third with 21.

TRIANGLE FIGHT TO CONTROL BALDWIN

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Progress of the three-cornered fight for control of Baldwin Locomotive Works, a $75,000,000 locomotive builder and rich holder of Philadelphia real estate, was keenly watched in the Wall St. district today.

The contestants are the Fisher Brothers of Detroit, famous automobile body builders, Arthur Cutten of Chicago and allied interests, and the so-called old guard of the Baldwin works, led by Samuel Vauclain, president.

RESCUE CREWS WORK FEVERISHLY IN EFFORT TO SAVE MAN IMPRISONED BY COLLAPSE OF WELL

AUBURN, Mass., Aug. 26.—Waging a grim battle with death, volunteer workers today decided to sink a shaft and tunnel to the side of Fred Leneau, 37, who was buried alive in the cave-in of a new well, at his place on Alpine Way.

Under an arch of broken timbers that held back a mass of earth and stones, Leneau spoke faintly through a fire hose that had been put down to give him air.

A physician among the rescuers ordered him to keep silent in order to conserve his strength.

Torn and broken, the body of the victim was held fast in the crush of the heavy, soggy mass of earth. The head was in an air space under the arch of timbers.

This forenoon there was a slight movement of earth and rocks above the arch. The diggers stopped in their work directly above fearing that the earth would crash down on the head of Leneau.

At 10 a. m. Leneau, a moulder, sides suddenly collapsed. Shoring from the sides buckled, forming an arch over his head. His body was caught in the mass of earth.

Rescuers faced the task of digging an excavation in the circle around the entombed man in order that the earth might fall away from his body instead of over the planking and crush his head.

When darkness came, a cordon of automobiles surrounded the scene of the cave-in and throughout the night the glare of their headlights provided illumination for the unusual fight.

Last rites of the church were administered through the planking.

During the night, Leneau was in great pain. "Tell the wife and children that it's all over," he moaned. Mrs. Leneau with her two little children was in a state of collapse.

Redfern Believed Still Skimming On Southern Journey

Florida Storm May Have Threatened Flyer, Is Said

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Aug. 26.—Although no news had been received early today of the progress of Aviator Paul Redfern's non-stop flight to Rio De Janeiro, Brazil, belief existed here that the daring aviator was still aloft and skimming southward over the Atlantic according to his schedule.

A dispatch from Miami, Fla.

stated that some apprehension for

Redfern had been felt there last night as the result of a severe local thunderstorm which struck the east coast of Florida at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Redfern, who hopped off at Glynn Isle Beach, Brunswick at 12:40 p.m. yesterday (Eastern Standard Time), was due to pass the Florida east coast during the night.

The Miami storm was believed to indicate atmospheric disturbances over the Bahamas. The weather bureau office at Miami made the following report:

"The thunderstorm is purely local, but may indicate other disturbances along the coast line. This does not necessarily mean that there are disturbances in the probable path of Redfern unless there are local disturbances in the Bahamas, around which a skillful aviator might safely proceed."

Redfern carried no radio on his monoplane, relying upon red and green flares in the event he met with accident. Ships along his route were asked to report by radio if the machine were sighted but no messages had arrived from any vessel early today.

Katherine Wilson, a "speakeasy" actress, and Richard Barthelmess, movie actor, are to wed. The couple will settle in Beverly Hills, Cal., where lives the five-year-old daughter of Barthelmess and his first wife, Mary Hay. Mary Hay is now the wife of Vivian Bath, a wealthy Singapore rubber merchant.

AMERICANS IN CASUALTY LIST OF TRAIN WRECK

Twenty One Killed As Excursion Plunges Over Trestle

CHAMONIX, France, Aug. 26.—Twenty-one persons were dead today and approximately thirty were suffering injuries of varying degrees of severity, as a result of the disaster here yesterday when an excursion train jumped the tracks and plunged over a high trestle.

Ten of the dead still were unidentified today. The train carried an international passenger list, and the work of identification proceeded very slowly.

So far, the only known American casualties were Mrs. Newton Perry of Chicago, and her daughter, who were seriously injured. Their maid was killed.

A preliminary investigation indicated that the wreck was caused by failure of the brakes.

Another American casualty was added to the list today with the identification of the body of a Mrs. Vildan, of Chicago.

300 CHINESE TROOPS DROWN

SHANGHAI, Aug. 26.—Three hundred northern troops are believed to have been drowned or killed by rifle and machine gun fire near Nanking today when Cantonese troops sank two troop laden boats in the Kanktse River.

The northerners were making an attack against the Cantonese defenders of Nanking, meanwhile trying to force a passage to the river.

A violent cross fire from the northerners' artillery and machine guns indicated that they intended to make another attempt to force their way over the river to storm the defenses of Nanking. The Cantonese prepared to resist any fresh assaults to the utmost.

Lawrence Wilkins, 15, Norwood, was high in class A with a score of 376 out of a possible 400; and Robert Elte, 13, Graytown, O., took first honors in class B with a 297 out of a possible 400.

Civilian riflemen from nearly every state in the union were at practice on the range today for next week's national matches.

Military and marine track-shots were arriving almost hourly.

Meanwhile the legitimate sale of tickets rolls merrily on. There was some confusion at the box office over purchasers of expensive seats insisting on knowing just exactly what part of the stadium they would be seated in. The only satisfaction they got was the assurance that $40 tickets are better than $30 tickets, and so on down the scale.

BELIEVE BOMBER INJURED WHEN BOMB PREMATURELY EXPLODES

POLICE believe the bomber was injured when his bomb exploded prematurely. A man was seen running away from the station limping immediately after the explosion.

An area covering several blocks and containing the city sewage station and the city morgue was shaken shortly before midnight by a terrific explosion. Windows were broken for blocks and seven men in the pumping station were badly bruised.

This is Baltimore's second bombing within two weeks. Mayor Broening's home was bombed some days ago.

TOKYO, Aug. 26.—Sixteen warships and ten seaplanes hunted off Monozeki today for the bodies of 119 officers and men missing in the double crash of two destroyers with two cruisers during night maneuvers.

Italian residents of the community ran excitedly into the streets yelling "Sacco-Vanzetti" after the explosion.

This is Baltimore's second bombing within two weeks. Mayor Broening's home was bombed some days ago.

Sleeping People Aroused But Residents Are Not Alarmed—No Property Damage Reported

—Has Had Two Serious Quakes

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Aug. 26.—Rousing slumberers from their beds, two sharp earthquake shocks rocked this city early today. No property damage was done. The first shock was felt at 4:40 a. m. and was followed by a second tremor of lesser intensity.

While a number of persons rushed into the streets after the first quake, most of the residents were not alarmed and remained indoors.

Today's shocks were the first felt here this summer.

OHIO ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE TO SUPPORT NEW MARSHALL BILL

Blame Wet Interests For Fight Against Xenian's Measure

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 26.—Formal sponsorship of the Marshall bill, which seeks to restore the operations of justice courts in Ohio, after their operations had been halted by a decision of the United States Supreme Court, and upon which a referendum election is being sought, was assumed by the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, in a formal statement issued here today, following a meeting of trustees.

The onus of the fight on the Marshall bill was placed upon the "wet interests" of the state by the Anti-Saloon League statement, despite the fact that the circulation of petitions to refer the act to the voters was largely directed by Senator Bender, of Cleveland, formerly one of the most active prohibition leaders in the Ohio legislature.

"The persons vitally interested in the defeat of this law are the bootleggers, their friends and patrons," said the statement. They have made a wet and dry issue of the Marshall law referendum. If that law is defeated at the polls, the result will be heralded throughout state and nation as wet victory.

The statement further charged that many signatures to the referendum petitions were obtained "through misrepresentation of the facts" and urged all Ohio church members to rally to the support of the Marshall measure.

RESTRAINING RULE AGAINST MINERS TO REMAIN EFFECTIVE

Judge Hough Modifies Order—Pilgrimage Is Postponed

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 26.—The temporary restraining order issued by Judge Hough of the United States District Court in Columbus, prohibiting striking miners from interfering with the operations of several Belmont County mines, to-day was continued in effect until September 3, as a result of a decision of Judge Hough sitting here late yesterday.

The court made the following announcement of modifications in the order:

Union picket posts must be 12 yards apart; a maximum of three tickets will be permitted at each post; the number of picket posts must be "reasonable" and no pickets will be permitted on the coal companies' properties.

It is expected counsel for the companies will seek an additional extension later from Sept. 3 to Sept. 6 on which date Judge Hough is to hear the application for permanent injunction.

ATHENS, O., Aug. 26.—Union miners who turned back Thursday after beginning an automobile pilgrimage into the Pomeroy nonunion district, will make the pilgrimage again this time under the direction of union officials, it was learned here today.

A meeting was held near Nelsonville late Thursday, after the miners had headed the plan of O'Dell Daugherty, president of the Nelsonville subdistrict. Daugherty agreed that the union men might visit the Pomeroy district and promised to accompany them at an early date.

The Pomeroy district is operating with nonunion labor at the daily wage scale of 1917.

BAKEMAN AMUSES TRAIN CUSTOMERS

NEW LEXINGTON, O., Aug. 26.—Operators of bus lines between Middleport and Corning, seeking to learn the whereabouts of decreased business, attribute the loss to Arthur Trovener's experience as a ventriloquist.

Arthur is a New York Central railroad brakeman, on duty between Middleport and Corning. After his duties are completed Trovener trots out a couple of "dolls" and entertains himself and the cash customers with an impromptu entertainment.

Farm Notes

NITROGEN FADES

It's true that sweet clover produces the best hay in the fall of its first year's growth, but does getting that hay mean gain or loss on the sweet clover crop in the long run?

Dr. C. J. Willard, professor of farm crops at the Ohio State University and associate agronomist at the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, Wooster, presents in the experiment station's bimonthly bulletin for July-August these conclusions based on many experiments, in Ohio and elsewhere.

"1. Cutting sweet clover for hay late in September reduced the amount of nitrogen available as green manure in April of the following year more than one-half, as an average of four years experiments at Columbus.

"2. The loss in a particular field will depend on the amount of root ductions. Cutting about November 1 has not resulted in winter-killing at Columbus, but might possibly have an unfavorable effect under other conditions.

"3. Sweet clover cut for hay the preceding fall may be two weeks later than that not cut in making sufficient growth to pasture in the spring.

"4. Cutting sweet clover for hay in September greatly increased its liability to winter-killing by heatwounds would destroy the stand if it were not clipped. Then the mowing should never be clipped in er should be set as high as possible.

CORNS

No waiting—one minute after you apply Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads the pain is gone. After the corn is healed it never comes back. If new shoes irritate the spot again, a Zino-pad fixes it overnight. Old methods of paring corns, or using caustic acids, are dangerous.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads are safe, antiseptic, protective, healing. They stop the heat, cool, rubbing and pressing of shoes. A call druggist's and shoe dealer's. Cost a trifle.

THE COMMUNITY PICNIC
Xenia set an example for itself at the community picnic in Shawnee Park Monday evening.

Hundreds of people demonstrated that the barriers of petty bickerings and intolerance that retard progress can be torn down.

Xenians jostled elbows, exchanged quips and made merry in general while exhibiting a form of charity and neighborliness that leads to co-operation and makes for progress in community life.

Such a gathering is good for the soul of a community. It purges it of bitterness, bickerings, jealousies, hates. It substitutes friendliness, charity, co-operation, tolerance.

If Xenia cannot be big in population, it still can be big in spirit. If it will never reach industrial greatness, it can still be fair, just, broadminded, and a good place in which to live.

Because necessity, convenience or choice, makes Xenia the home of 10,000 or more people, then there should be unity of thought and effort among these people to make Xenia an attractive, a comfortable, a NICE place to live.

Such gatherings as that of Monday are mighty good starters on a program of that nature. There should be more of them.

CHANGING HABITS AND LAWS

"Spitting prohibited by law under penalty of fine or imprisonment," and "No spitting on the sidewalk," were signs as often seen two decades ago as are "No parking," "Speed limit" and "Detour" signs today.

Those signs were quite necessary years past because the public had a fashion of expectorating at random and without regard for the health and sensibilities of others. People had not been educated in the disease-spreading tendencies of public spitting and in "polite etiquette." Today there are few breaches of either the penal or the social rule.

Whether fear of the law or sanitary education has brought about this reformation is a matter of conjecture or perhaps prejudice, but it is generally admitted that there is little real need today for "spitting prohibited" and "no spitting" signs. One no longer hears of arrests for violations of the expectoration law because there is so little unlawful and unsanitary spitting.

The same thing applies to many others of the rules of human conduct which this civilization chooses to call laws. Laws enacted today are obsolete tomorrow. The first automobiles were held down to a six-mile-an-hour speed limit. Today few states enforce a speed limit lower than 20 miles in town and 35 miles on the open road.

Because one generation finds a law necessary to the well-being of society does not argue that the same law must be enforced in the next generation or that a law diametrically opposite is not advisable for a succeeding generation.

The Way of the World

DRIVE SAFELY

One hundred and sixteen persons lost their lives in the Johnstown flood. When the Iroquois theater in Chicago burned, 575 were killed. Eleven hundred and ninety-eight perished when the Lusitania was sunk, and 1,517 went down with the Titanic. These catastrophes cover a number of years, but in the same length of time more Americans have been killed by motor cars. Auto accidents don't "just happen." They have plain and simple causes. Most all of them are caused by plain and simple carelessness.

THERE'S ALWAYS OPPORTUNITY

The commonest cry of youth entering the world of affairs is for "opportunity." So many young men excuse themselves for not getting ahead on the ground that there is no opportunity.

Wherever there is a job there is opportunity. Major General R. H. Allen, who became chief of infantry in the United States army, rose from the ranks of enlisted men. And the army is not generally considered a place of great opportunity for men who are not officers.

It's not the lack of opportunity—it's not knowing what to do with it that makes failure.

WHAT IS RADICAL?

Some time ago a speaker before the society of Mayflower Descendants condemned "radicalism." Most of us use that word loosely. We see red when somebody says "radical." A thing isn't necessarily bad because it is radical—because it means radical change. The very men and women who came to America on the Mayflower were certainly radicals. The patriot army at Bunker Hill was made up entirely of radicals. Columbus, Galileo, Cromwell, Lincoln, and a glorious host of others were radicals. It depends on what kind of radical we are talking about. Probably a few of us are able to judge good ones from bad ones.

Very often a radical is simply a man another radical does not like.

SONGS of a HOUSEWIFE

GOOD FLOWERS AND BAD

PANSIES are always well-behaved. They bow politely to the sun, and stay demurely where they're told. They never trouble anyone.

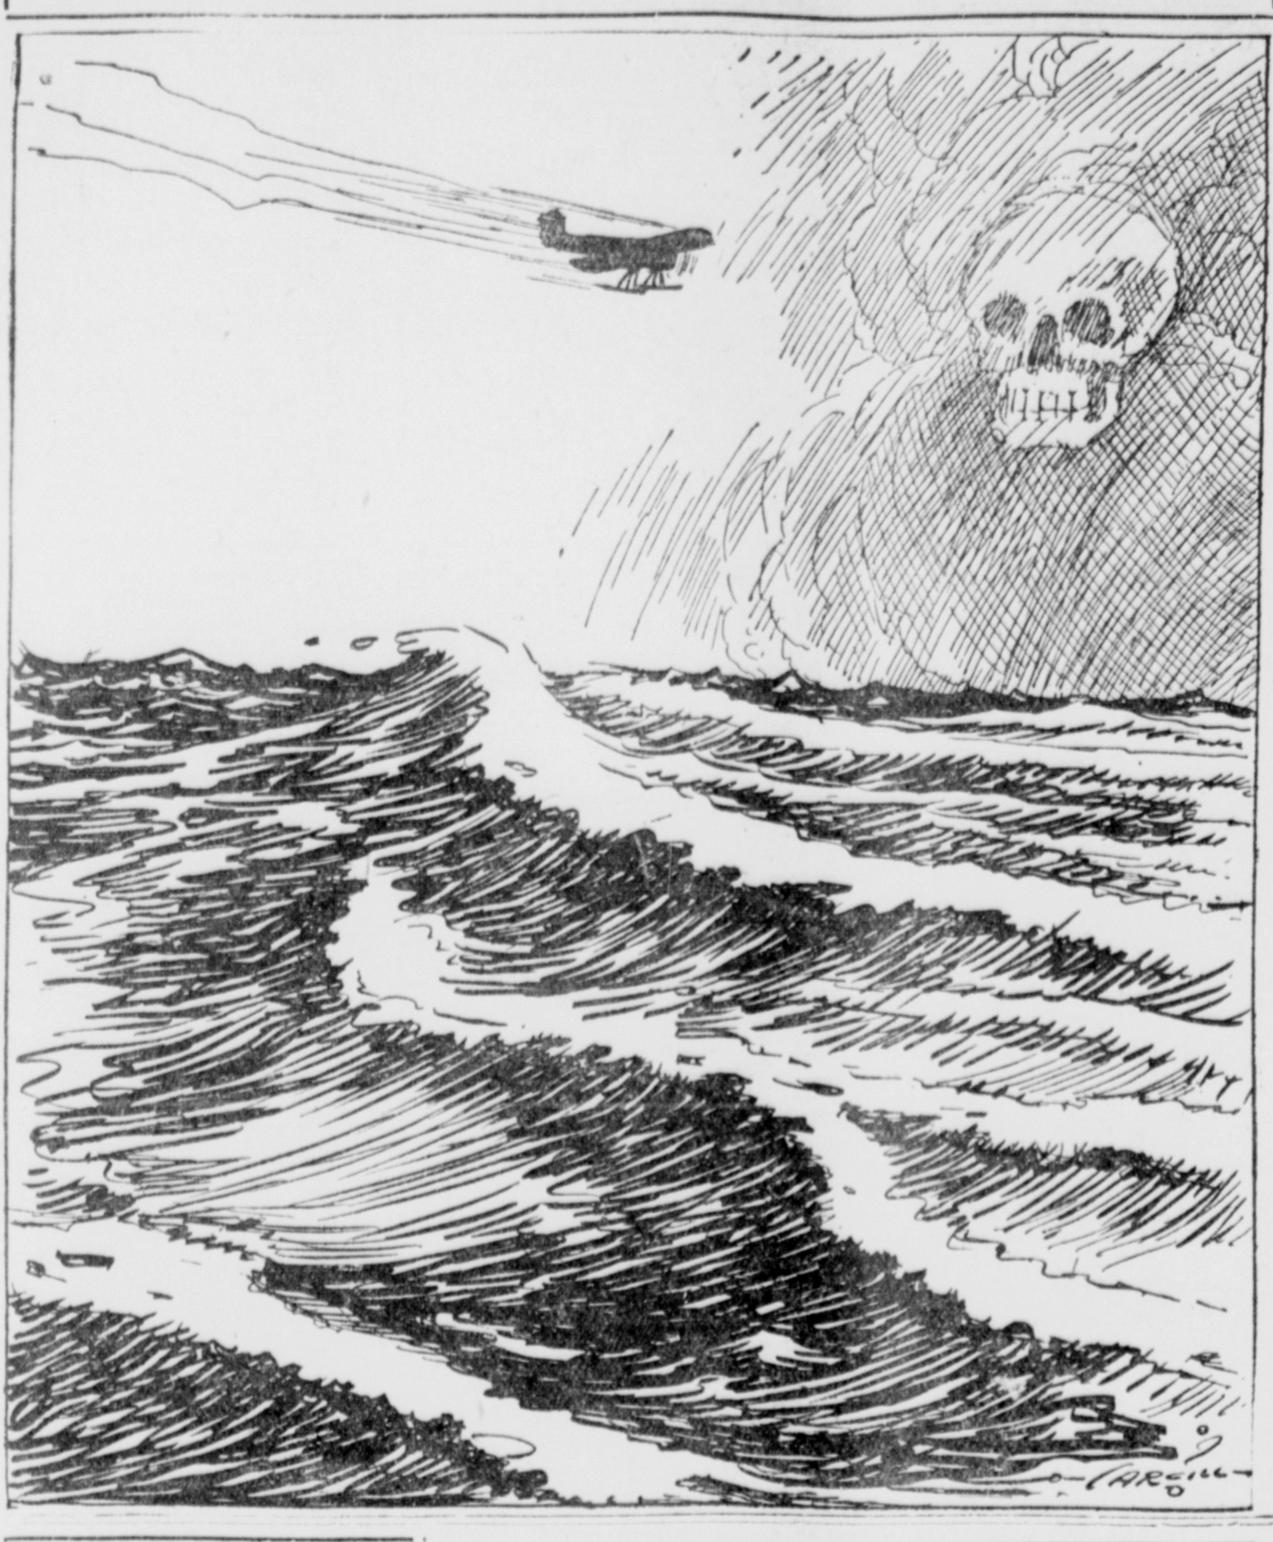

Petunias are quiet flowers. They try their nicest to be good. Aster are hale and hearty blooms. And thrive on any kind of food.

But oh, the obstreperous sweet-peas! They don't want this, they don't want that! Untidy bachelor-buttons! Pinks! SULKING instead of growing fat!

They're like spoiled children. They refuse the food that suits the normal child. And if I turn my back on them, They thumb the nose—and just run wild!

Household Hints

By Mrs. Mary Morton

MENU HINT

One way of using up the roast is the meat pie. Sometimes it is best to cook the meat a little more before putting into the pudding pan, especially if it is a little tough. Onions, potatoes and other vegetables may be added to the meat pie if desired, but should be at least partially cooked before adding the crust.

Meat Pie Baked Potatoes

Tomatoes and Cucumbers Sliced with French Dressing

Dutch Apple Pudding

Milk or Tea

Today's Recipes

Meat Pie—Cut the meat in suitable pieces, and arrange in a baking dish in its own gravy. If the amount is not too generous, use plenty of gravy and invert a tea cup in the center of the dish to hold the crust.

Make a rich biscuit crust and lay it carefully over the top of the dish, or cut into biscuit shape and cover top. Bake in a hot oven until the crust is baked through and nicely browned.

Roll and cut the rest of the biscuit dough and place in baking pan and put into the oven when the meat pie comes out. Then they will be ready to eat when the family is seated at the table.

Dutch Apple Pudding—One pint (two cups) flour, two teaspoons sugar, one-fourth cup butter, one egg, one cup milk, one-half teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder, four sour apples. Mix dry ingredients. Beat the egg, add milk, then stir into dry mixture. Spread one-half inch thick in shallow baking pans. Core, pare and cut apples in eighths and lay them on the dough, sprinkle with a little sugar. Bake in a hot oven for thirty minutes. Serve with lemon sauce.

Brown—To cook by direct heat from the fire. The ideal fire for broiling is over charcoal. Over coals the material is held by the bars of a gridiron or broiler. In broiling by gas flame the material rests on a rack set on a pan that is run under the flame. It is a quick method of cooking.

Suggestions

Can Be Used Twice

If you wish to save crocheted lace for another pillowcase, try this method when making. Sew strong rick-rack braid on the under side of the hem, letting the points extend below the hem far enough to catch your hook instead of hooking into the pillowcase. Then when the case wears out, rip off the braid and sew onto the new case. The lace will always out-wear two pillowcases.

Easily Eaten

A nice way to prepare peaches to be taken on picnics is to wash them well, leaving the skin on. Then with a knife make a series of cuts lengthwise of the peach through to the pit and about three-fourths inch apart. Leave a small space at each end of the peach uncut so that it will hold together.

In other words, consider the peach as a globe representing the earth and carve the meridians from one polar circle to the other, leaving the polar regions intact. Wrap each peach separately in waxed paper and at lunch time it will easily come apart in right size pieces.

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe.)

HAMBURG STEAK

One pound of chopped beef made into balls with a little chopped onion, half a cup of bread crumbs, an egg or two and flavored with pepper and salt. Drop into sauce made of one pint tomatoes, one chopped green pepper and one chopped onion. Simmer for one-half hour and serve with sauce poured over them.

ONE WAY TO LIVE AFTER DEATH

I wonder if an important reason for the phenomenal growth of trust companies in this country isn't the craving men have to live after death. By co-operating with a trust company one may have his say about what shall become of his estate when he dies. He may say that he wants his wife to have his stock of chips after he is compelled to quit the game. He may stipulate that to get it she must walk barefooted to his grave on each anniversary of his death.

On the other hand, there were men, like the late Johns Hopkins, miserly and totally unloved in life, who, when they discovered that they could not take their money with them, became lavishly generous with it and disposed of it as wisely as we think of them as wise as Lovely Characters.

Other men, in their wills, naively betray an ambition to be buried in the grave. Jay Gould stipulated that if any child of his married contrary to his wishes, or even to himself, that he would like to make him sit up after he's gone. We do not lose our vanity even at the grave!

Reading over copies of several scores of famous wills, the thing that impressed me about these was how many men didn't seem to care whether they were loved or hated by those left behind, so long as they were distinctly remembered. These wills contained almost equal parts of meanness and goodness.

Sometimes the man who feels that he has been unappreciated by wife or family resolves when he sits down to draw up his will that here is his chance to get even. One fellow who left a large fortune to his wife—inasmuch as he couldn't think what else to do with it—stipulated that to get it she must walk barefooted to his grave on each anniversary of his death.

On the advent of the first tooth we can take as a hint that baby now needs something else besides the cereal feeding at the fifth and sixth month, beginning with a level teaspoonful of some cereal (before its bottle or nursing), and gradually worked up to an ounce or two. This is followed soon by pureed vegetables and fruits.

I'll give you what the year-old baby should be taking, approximately. If he hasn't been having the foods listed, you must begin with very tiny amounts and gradually increase them. (I suggest you send for the list of books on the care and feeding of children, and that you also take your baby to a children's specialist or a baby clinic. Write to me, care of this paper, enclosing a fully self-addressed stamped envelope, and ask for the list of books recommended to parents and guardians of children.)

Table of Feeding From Ninth to Twelfth Month, and Weaning.

6 a. m.—Nursing or bottle. (Omit breast feeding at fourth week of ninth month; give eight ounces of milk formula instead.)

9 a. m.—Orange juice, three or four tablespoonsfuls.

10 a. m.—Strained cereal, three to four level tablespoonsfuls. Piece of dry toast. Add small amount of butter to toast by ninth month.

Egg yolk, two or three times a week or oftener. Begin this early if baby is anemic. Can be stirred in milk or taken on toast. Nursing or bottle. (Omit nursing second week of ninth month and give four of dry toast and butter to toast by ninth month.)

11 a. m.—Cereals, same amount as at 10 a. m., followed by nursing or bottle. Add a little milk or cereal. No sugar. (Omit nursing and give bottle by third week of ninth month.)

10 p. m.—Nursing or bottle. (Omit at tenth or eleventh month.)

Young or old, all suffer from intestinal stasis (constipation). The cause can be told with one word—

That word is "Civilization!" It means "over-eating", "over-work", "worry" and "nerves".

The nervous force that should go to the bowel-nerves is taken by the brain or other parts of the body, to perform "civilized" duties—or excesses.

NICKEL SMOKES?

Yes—5c Buys a Better Cigar

Than It Ever Did. Read the Joyful Story

"What? A nickel?" Can a single buffalo-piece put a thoroughbred cigar between your lips? Yes, men, it can and will. That may seem strange to some of you who have tried out the average five-cent. Maybe we can't convince you with words but you can convince yourself with a five-cent piece.

Take that nickel to the nearest cigar store and ask for a "Havana Ribbon." As soon as you set it going you'll thank us for the tip.

You're going to enjoy a tobacco treat so satisfying that you will forget the cost. Sniff the aroma. Note the full body and flavor.

You'll be amazed!

How can we sell Havana Ribbon at a nickel? Simply because it is so popular. We've been able to reduce the price and better the quality. It costs you only a nickel to let the cigar prove itself to you. So, why hold back?

JUNIOR BUSINESS MEN WIN LOOP TITLE IN PLAYGROUND GAMES

The final game of the Xenia playground Association schedule was never played as the Kiwanis club failed to appear for its game with the Junior Business Men Thursday. This forfeit victory gave the Business Men first place in Division A and kept the Central High School from the slim chance it had of tying the league leaders.

In the other two games this week the Kiwanis Club defeated the Senior Business Men and the Butchers lost to the Lang Chevrolet Co. The Kiwanis Club, by defeating the Senior Business Men, allowed the Boy Scouts to move into a tie with the latter team for third place. The Butchers fell into a tie for last place by their defeat.

Kiwanis vs. Senior B. M.

The last place Kiwanians had no trouble disposing of the Senior Business Men in their game Tuesday with a score of 22-10.

Score by innings:

Kiwanis 1 3 2 1 2 5—14

S. B. M. 3 0 1 3 2—10

Lang Co. Vs. Butchers

To wind up their schedule and incidentally the schedule of the association and Lang Chevrolet's easily cast aside the Butchers 22 to 8 in a Division B game Wednesday.

The Butchers went into the lead at the start but the Lang Co. quickly overcame this lead and was never headed thereafter.

Score by innings:

Lang. Co. 1 5 6 2 0 0 8—22

Butchers 3 0 0 3 0 1 1—8

The Theater

Just as the best baseball managers are former players, and the leading football coaches are, without exception, ex-grid stars, so does Hollywood get most of its film bosses from the ranks of players. King Vidor, D. W. A great many film stars, while working on a picture, eat but two meals, "brunch" and dinner. They are so busy that they have to combine breakfast and luncheon, hence the name "brunch". Marie Prevost is credited with coining the word.

Bare legs are taboo at Hollywood high school summer school. When the edict went into effect the students didn't protest. It was discovered that hardly any of the girls appear on the streets any more sans stockings.

These movie people do work! Phil Klein, production supervisor for one of the west coast cinema shops, proves it. Klein is working on five productions at once these days.

FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

Peter's Adventures

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

TURTLE AND TERRAPIN GO TO SEA

Jack-in-the-Box looked up at Boy as he made this plea, and Peter could have sworn there were tears in his eyes.

"Judge you by the worst of your relatives!" repeated Peter. "Why, tunes," declared Jack-in-the-Box, and chuckled. "They must have had a great time of it, those three cousins, deciding where they would go, for they made up their minds that each would start off in different direction and 'go it alone.' Tis said they argued about it for days and days before they had argued the matter out.

"Then one fine morning they came to a decision.

"I," said the Turtle, "love the water and want to go to sea."

"Well, what about me?" asked Terrapin. "Did you ever see me when I didn't wish to be wet? I want to leave the land, too."

"But we have sworn to separate," said the two, in chorus, and looked very disconsolate, for they didn't know what to do.

"Oh, that's nothing," declared the wise old grandmother, who had listened to the brothers and saw they were coming to no decision. "Nothing at all to worry about! Turtle you start for the salt sea, and Terrapin you stay in the fresh water, and when you two have found your fortunes come back and tell us old folks about it!"

TURTLE YOU START FOR THE SEA AND TERRAPIN YOU STAY IN FRESH WATER!

Tortoise, of course I won't. Didn't I say, and only a moment ago, that I liked you? I do, and I feel sure I am going to like you more and more the longer we are acquainted.

"There! That is all I wanted to know!" said Jack-in-the-Box, and now he was grinning in his old cheerful way. "Now let's change the subject. I am getting tired of all this. I started to tell you about the three cousins, and just see how far I have wandered!"

"But you told me things I ought to have known, so it wasn't time wasted," laughed Peter. "However, now for the tale of the Tortoise, the Turtle and the Terrapin! You said they lived in Reptile land. What did they do?"

"They went to seek their for-

Sally's Shoulders by BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN" "HONEY LOU" "THE HOLLYWOOD GIRL" ETC.

"I'm going to quit my job if this keeps up," Millie giggled.

READ THIS FIRST:
SALLY JEROME, pretty and clever, is the mainstay of her family in the absence of her father, who does not live with her mother. MRS. JEROME enjoys ill health, so Sally does the housework mornings and office work afternoons for Mr. Peevey, BEAU, her brother, and MILLIE, her sister, give little towards the support of the home, and the burden falls on Sally.

In the flat below the Jeromes lives TED SLOAN, who wants Sally to marry him and stop working. But the only man who interests her is JOHN NYE, whose real estate office is across the hall from Mr. Peevey. Millie is Nye's secretary and he is infatuated with her. However, she prefers a bond salesman named DAVIDSON, of whom John is jealous, so she says.

Beau borrows some money from the bank where he works, and Mr. Peevey gives Sally the money to cover the theft. Then Beau takes with his girl, MABEL, and borrows her home to live. They pay practically no board, and Sally is frantic. Millie goes to the hospital for an appendicitis operation, and John Nye pays for her expensive room and a special nurse. While she is there, Sally does her work in John Nye's office, and when Mr. Peevey returns from business John offers Sally a position with him. But she refuses it, and goes into the wayside inn business with her AUNT EMILY JEROME, an ex-school teacher.

The business does not thrive, although the food is delicious and the place is beautiful and comfortable. The winter passes with Aunt Em and Sally doing all the work themselves, in a grand effort to keep afloat. In the spring Aunt Em hires a jazz band, hoping that that will "pep up" the business. Then "The Lark," a nearby roadhouse, opens, and takes away many of their patrons. Ted Sloan takes Sally to see some dances there, and they decide to put on a dance and themselves. It is a great hit, and efforts surely improve of Aunt Em's inn. Sally wears a mask and a costume covered with bells when she dances. Her old one wears out, and she buys an expensive new one, to the annoyance of her mother, who has come, with all the rest of the family, to live at the inn. She tells Sally that she ought to save her money and start housekeeping again.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLVII

IT always made Sally utterly miserable to know that her mother was unhappy about anything.

Sally felt toward Mrs. Jerome as a doting parent might feel toward a child that was sickly and bad-tempered and hard to please. She pampered her and petted her, and let her have her own way whenever she could.

Her big, shadowy eyes were full of trouble now as she turned them upon her mother's discontented face.

"I thought you liked being here with Aunt Em, dear," she said, remembering how determined her mother had been about coming there.

Mrs. Jerome sighed and shook her head.

"I don't," she answered. "Your Aunt makes me get up so early in the morning, and yesterday when she asked me to shell two bushels of green peas I just didn't know how I was going to do it—the smell of peas has always made me terribly sick to my stomach. I want to go back to my own home."

Sally's face, as she stopped the car and began to unload it, was very sober. "Well, Momie," she said slowly and quietly, "I'll take another flat somewhere just as soon as I can. But I can't afford it right now."

"Of course you can afford it! The way you and your aunt are making money now—she sniped, heavily lowering her great blue eyes. "I must say this morning that you must be making a small fortune!"

"We aren't," Sally was telling the truth. They were making more money than they had, but their expenses were heavier, too.

"Then how could you afford what you've got there?" her mother wanted to know, her doubting eyes on the brown paper bundle that was Sally's new dancing dress.

"Well, I couldn't, as I told you," Sally said bluntly. "But I had to have it.... That dance seems to help our business, somehow or other, and the old costume was so shabby—"

"Not half so good as Sally," Davidson added solemnly. His gray eyes were on Sally as she bent over the little table, sorting bills and quarters and half dollars.

She could feel them passing over her face, her neck and breast, and settling on the toes of her blue-and-silver slippers.

"Some feet, Sally," he said. "They sure do know how to shake a wicked measure. And your shoulders aren't so slow."

Sally flashed her brilliant smile at him, and went on counting: "Thirty-four—thirty-five—thirty-six—"

"Plenty of money you're taking in, aren't you?" asked Davidson.

"It was Millie who answered him.

"I'm going to quit my job if this keeps up," she giggled. "And go into the restaurant business myself. I'm getting awfully sick of the job I've got, anyway." She sighed deeply.

Sally stopped counting and glanced up at her sharply, questioningly.

"You are!" she exclaimed. "Sick of working for John Nye!"

It began to dawn upon Sally that not only Mrs. Jerome, but the whole family thought that she and Aunt Emily were making a great deal of money.

Beau and Mabel began to talk about trading in their shaky little flame-colored roadster for a new car.

"Sally can lend us some money and we can pay her back so much a week," Beau remarked easily one Sunday morning when they were all having breakfast together on the back porch.

Sally stared at him, wide-eyed with astonishment. "Lend you the money for a car?" she cried. "Ye gods, Beau, I'm still paying for that new blue costume of mine. I can't lend you any money."

Mabel giggled sharply. "People always get right when they start making money!" she said. "The only generous people in the world are the people who can't afford to be generous."

Sally flushed. "I hope I won't be tight and stingy when I do start making money, Mabsy," she replied evenly. "But I'm not making any just now. Please believe me. Thirty dollars a week isn't a fortune, you know."

Millie seemed to make the same mistake.

She took to bringing Davy Davidson home with her two or three nights a week, and serving him with one of the $1.50 chicken dinners as nonchalantly as if it had been a hamburger sandwich.

"We aren't in this business for our health, Milliecent," Aunt Em caught her up sharply one night after Davidson had gone. "And you have to pay for this man's dinners, or else tell him so, if he comes back! Good night!"

And without a single backward glance she was up the stairs and out of sight. The sound of her sharp little heels sounded on the floor above as she went back and forth in her room, preparing for the night.

Sally, silent with confusion, finished counting her money before she looked up at Davidson.

He was standing just as he had been standing three minutes before, smiling down at her. Evidently Millie's jealous outburst had not disturbed him any more than her command to leave the house had caused him to go.

"Well," he said in an undertone to Sally. "What have you to say about that?"

"I'll say this: Good night!" replied Sally, getting up from her chair with her money in her hands.

She turned toward the little office at the end of the hall, where Aunt Em had a tiny wall safe for her money.

She did not know that Davidson had followed her there, until she had deposited the money in the little stronghold and closed it.

Then as she turned to go back to the hall, she came face to face with him. He was standing close behind her—so close that when she turned she touched him with one of the dusky white shoulders that curved above the soft blue silk of her dancing dress.

He laid one of his hands on it, repeating it.

"We are wrong, Aunt Em!" she declared hotly. "Davidson and Mabel have been great friends for years. I scarcely know him."

But there came a night when Aunt Em's suspicion was proved a well-founded one.

It was a warm, starry night late in June, and the House by the Side of the Road had done a record-breaking business.

At half past twelve Sally was counting over the money they had taken in when the front door opened and Millie and Davidson walked in.

They had spent the evening dancing at "The Lark," for Millie was getting even with Aunt Em by refusing to step inside of the restaurant at home for a meal.
